OFFICIAL PAPER OF LEE COUNTY BY ACT OF SUPERVISORS

DIXON, ILLINOIS MONDAY JULY 21 1913

Dixon Daily Telegraph Thirtieth Year No. 171

ASK BAIL FOR POPA, HELD FOR DEATH

CLAIM THAT ALLEGED SLAYER OF IGNATZ SHOULD BE ON BOND.

FINISH OF COURT IS VERY BUSY

Judge Heard Re-Convened the April Term of Circuit Court Today.

Claiming that the commitment papers issued by the coroner holding Charles Popa, the alleged slayer of Ignatz, to the grand jury, do not charge him with any crime, and maintaining that if his client is guilty of manslaughter he is admissible to bail, Attorney Brooks, representing Popa, will ask Judge Heard this afternoon to admit his client to bail. Judge Heard having reconvened the April term of the Lee county circuit court at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon to complete the business before the term. Undoubtedly the prisoner will be admitted to bail, as States Attorney Edwards has intimated that he will not object to bond if it is sufficient.

The last session of the April term of the court, which will continue until tomorrow evening, promises to be especially busy for Judge Heard, as many final reports, demurrers, etc., are to be argued before him. Many out of town lawyers were present in the court this afternoon to present cases, among them being County Judge John Turnbaugh of Mt. Carroll, Clarence Garliner of Rochelle, Harry D. Irwin of Chicago, S. B. Pool and C. H. Wooster of Amboy and C. F. Preston of Pawpaw. Ira R. and J. R. Titus of Steward were here today.

STERLING WON FROM STARS; SCORE 7-2

WEST ENDS TOOK ADVANTAGE OF SLIPS BY DIXON PLAYERS.

The Dixon Stars were disappointed in their ambition to defeat the Sterling West Ends at Sterling yesterday, although for seven innings it looked as though they were about to cop the victory. For that length of time the Dixon boys set the pace for the Sterlings, their one run being enough to keep the West Ends hustling. In the seventh inning, however, the Stars bumped the bumps, and the West Ends took the lead and kept it easily to the end. The final score was 7 to 2.

Twelve Inning Game. Eldena and Nachusa played a rubber game at Athletic park here yesterday afternoon and the contest was one of the best seen here for some months. The game, which was to decide the supremacy of the teams, went twelve innings, Nachusa winning, 7 to 6. A number of Dixon people witnessed and enjoyed the contest.

Freeport Beat Dixon

The Stover Engine Works team at Freeport played the Dixon team at the Plow factory team at Atcham, Saturday and won from them. The final score was 7 to 6. The Grand tour team put up a good brand of baseball.

3 ON WAY TO CHURCH

Jerseyville, Ill., July 21.—Mrs. Hattie Ryan, her five-year-old son Stewart and three-year-old daughter Lillian, were killed instantly when a buggy in which they were riding to church was struck by a north-bound Chicago & Alton passenger train a mile south of Jerseyville, Ill. Engineer Johnston fainted. On the spot was found the boy tangled in the shreds of the buggy top.

Pastor Celebrates Golden Wedding. Los Angeles, Cal., July 21.—Rev. Charles W. Tarr of Ohio and Danville, Ind., founder of twenty churches, celebrated with his wife the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Tarr was formerly a Danville resident.

NEW LAW SHOULD BOOST ENROLLMENT

DIXON HIGH SCHOOLS WILL NO DOUBT BENEFIT BY THE LEGISLATION.

The Dixon high school enrollment will be increased appreciably by the new free high school tuition law passed by the last legislature. The act provides for the payment of high school tuition of pupils who have no high school in their district, stipulating that this tuition must be paid by the district in which the pupil resides. A law to this effect was passed in 1907 but a phrase inserted in it rendered it unconstitutional and ineffective. But now each district that has no high school must pay the tuition of the children who are attending high school in another district. Heretofore the $40 tuition fee had to be paid by the pupil. It is but reasonable to suppose that there will be more pupils take the high school course if they don't have to pay the tuition fee. The high school of Dixon therefore will draw on the treasury of the district for the tuition of the pupil and the treasurer will be compelled to pay it the same as any other bill.

CITY SERVICE ON WEST END BRANCH

HALF-HOUR SERVICE IS INSURED THE RESIDENTS IN WEST NORTH DIXON.

The Sterling, Dixon & Eastern today began giving the residents of West Fellows street, Swissville and adjacent territory improved city service which, if the patronage warrants, will be continued. A city car, leaving the car barns at fifteen minutes to the hour and fifteen minutes after the hour, is being run from the car barns to the River road, giving the patrons on that line half-hourly service which if the patronage warrants River road on the hour and half hour, running only to the barns. While the company does not propose to discontinue local service with the interurbans, it is the wish of the management that patrons use the city cars as much as possible.

Mid-Summer Harvest Sale in Dixon Stores July 19th to 26th

DOWNWARD FARE REVISION BEGINS

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION NOTIFIES ROADS TO FINISH WORK IN 1914

WILL COST RAILROADS MILLIONS

Carriers Have Been Holding Off, Awaiting Supreme Court Decision

A revision downward of interstate passenger fares has been begun by the central and western passenger associations and similar action by other passenger organizations throughout the country is expected within a short time. The rail carriers have been advised by the interstate commerce commission that the revision must be completed in time to make the new rates effective May 1, 1914. According to passenger traffic managers of railways entering Chicago, it is doubtful if the task of revising the tariffs can be completed within the time limit prescribed by the commission.

To Cost Roads Millions. No estimate has been made of the amount of reduction, but it is expected it will total millions of dollars annually. The railways delayed making a change in interstate fares because it was hoped the Supreme court, in disposing of the Minnesota rate cases would hold that 2-cent fare laws in various states were invalid.

The long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce law which prohibits a higher charge for a through route than the aggregate of the local fares, became effective July 1, 1910, but the commission suspending the time for its enforcement.

Cuts Kansas City Fare. The arrangement will include a cut in the fare between Chicago and Kansas City to a basis of 2 cents a mile and a similar reduction will be made in the fare between St. Louis and Kansas City. Thousands of other interstate fares will also be affected, as well as a large number of interstate fares.

EXERCISES AT THE FAMILY THEATER

CHARLES HEINZ BODY TAKEN TO PERU TODAY

WEED BURNERS DO EXCELLENT WORK

WORK OF DESTROYING OBNOXIOUS GROWTH ALONG TRACK IS TAKEN UP.

PREPARE FOR GRAIN SHIPMENTS

All Available Cars Soon to Be Placed in Service for This Use—General News of the Railroads.

The railroads in this vicinity are having a great amount of trouble with the weeds on their right of way and every effort is being made to keep them under control with good results in some sections. The weather thus far has been very good for the weeds and they grow nearly as fast as they can be cut down. Plenty of rain with extremely hot days pushes the weeds from the ground with a rapidity that is almost beyond belief.

Several of the roads have purchased weed burners. This is a new device in the destruction of weeds and a great deal of success has attended the work. The machine is pulled along the tracks and as it moves it spreads oil all over the right of way which is then ignited with the result that it burns the green weeds as well as those which are dried up. The cost of running the oil spreading device is very great, but if the desired results are forthcoming, the companies feel well repaid for the time and money spent.

Several derailments of box cars have resulted from the growth of the weeds, as they grow in large bunches along the track in some places and are sufficiently large to cause the cars to leave the tracks, and it is to do away with this trouble that the burners are sent out.

Getting Ready for Grain.

The working force of the Illinois Central car shops is busily engaged in getting cars ready for the big grain movement which will soon begin from the northwest. The car department in this city is one of the largest of the company and many cars are brought here and repaired. Cars that are in need of general repairs are sent here. When the movement of grain starts every available car of the system will be pressed into service as competition among the companies for this business is very keen and all companies make preparations for it.—Freeport Journal.

PLOW SHOPS WILL START IN AUGUST

ARE REPAIRING MACHINERY AND TAKING INVOICE AT FACTORY NOW.

The Grand Detour Plow company's shops, which are shut down now, the shut down being occasioned by the blowing out of a cylinder head and other machine troubles, will be running about the middle of August, according to the statement of W. B. Brinton this afternoon. The entire force at the factory is taking advantage of the enforced delay in the shops to take their annual invoice, and there is also considerable work to be done on the machinery, as the shops have had an especially long run now without a stop for repairs.

Martin Strausberger Kills His Step-Mother and Then Takes Own Life.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—Special to Telegraph.—President Wilson has decided not to recognize the Huerta government of Mexico under any circumstances, in spite of Germany's hint that such action should be taken by the United States.

MAYOR SUSTAINS BRIDGE SPRINKLING

MR. BRINTON DECLARES IN FAVOR OF THE PEDESTRIANS.

Mayor W. B. Brinton, in an interview with a Telegraph reporter this morning, stated that he was in favor of continuing the sprinkling of the floor of the bridge in spite of the objections of some of the auto drivers, who claim that the wet floor is dangerous to travel over because of the danger of skidding into the iron work at the side, as several have already done, much to their embarrassment.

Said the mayor: "As long as the autoists insist on flying down that hill onto the bridge thirty miles an hour, they are in danger of skidding and wrecking their autos. But if they will drive slowly, as they should, and keep to the right and follow the rigs across the bridge, instead of trying to race around them, there is no danger from the wet floor. If we stop sprinkling the bridge, we do so at the expense of the pedestrians whose walk across the bridge leaves them covered with dust and filth on a breezy day, when the bridge has not been sprinkled."

The mayor stated that he had instructed Commissioner VanBibber to have a sign erected at each end of the bridge, warning drivers to go slow and keep to the right.

FORDHAM TALKED OF FOR STATE SENATOR

DEKALB COUNTY PROGRESSIVES FAVOR CANDIDACY OF DIXON MAN

SAY WHITESIDE WANTS PLUM

Sycamore Paper Says Lee County Should Have the Office—Fordham Is Non-Committal

Whiteside Tribune:—Whiteside and Lee counties are in a controversy over the selection of the next state senator. According to the vote, the district was overwhelmingly Progressive and Roy Hunt, the party's only legislative candidate, was given over 10,000 votes.

Progressives of the district are determined to retire Senator Grey of Whiteside county, because in the first place he is not in sympathy with the progressive movement which predominates in the district. Besides, Mr. Grey opposed several good bills in the house, that marks him as opposed to Progressive legislation.

Whiteside county claims that she should again have the senatorship but fails to offer a simon pure progressive. The faction over there that seems to have the politics of that county by the throat, has been suggesting through the press of the county, some near-progressive as a candidate. Representative Abbott is suggested for the office. They say that he is a progressive in sympathy, but the progressives, while not discountenancing Mr. Abbott's ability and character, cannot back him unless he steps over the line into the progressive fold.

DeKalb county progressives are looking with favor on Harry G. Fordham of Dixon and are urging that he be put forward as the progressive candidate for state senator. No man stands higher in the district, and with his ability will make a worthy man from this district.

Mr. Fordham was formerly a democrat, but at the birth of the progressive party a year ago, accepted its platform and principles as the nearest to his own views. He came out squarely for the new party and began working for its interests. Much of the party's success in Lee county is due to his efforts. At the state convention held at Springfield this spring, Mr. Fordham was chosen state treasurer of the progressive party, a recognition of his standing.

It would seem the part of wisdom for the progressive party to unite on the candidacy of Fordham, inasmuch as he will have the endorsement of the Lee county progressives, and in addition will be entirely satisfactory to DeKalb county progressives. It is also safe to assume that Whiteside progressives will not seek to oppose his candidacy, because of the unsatisfactory condition of Whiteside politics.

Dixon—Mr. Fordham stated to a reporter from the The Telegraph that he had not considered running for the office of Senator and that he had nothing to say regarding the DeKalb County paper's article.

TROUBLES OF WOMEN

Without listing the names or mentioning the details about diseases of women, I wish to say I am treating a good list of patients of this sort all the time and many of these patients are entirely cured, others only greatly benefited. The best part of it all is the great number I have saved from surgical operations. A few years ago, when surgery was more fashionable than now, much damage was done to womankind by needless operations. Many of these cases could be cured today by electrical and other conservative treatments, without risk and without pain. I extend free consultation to all who are suffering from conditions of this kind and if I do not think you can be cured without a surgical operation, I will frankly tell you. If I think any local treatments will be of benefit to you, my charges will be reasonable and consistent with the circumstances of all.

I do all kinds of office practice, skin and venereal diseases, eye, ear, nose and throat, stomach, liver and bowel troubles etc., etc.

When selecting a doctor do as you would do if you were buying a home, viz: investigate carefully.

Slender Figure—of Speech

A Tacoma lawyer, arguing a divorce case recently, closed his address to the jury as follows: "My client is a beautiful woman, so beautiful that the sun seems to stand still while the stars gaze at her. Truthful! Falsity flies from her even as the jack rabbit flits from the greyhound. Sweet! Gentlemen, honey would freeze in my mouth. Tender and slender! My client could bathe in a fountain pen."—National Corporation Reporter.

"Willie, did you carry your books on the left side this morning?" demanded mother.

"Yes m."

"Very well. Now, don't forget to carry them on the right side Monday morning."

"What difference does it make?" growled dad.

"That shows what kind of a father you are," snapped mother. "If the child didn't alternate, he might get curvature of the spine."

Goose Hollow Letter

There are a lot of fellows in this world who don't live up to the advance notices passed out about them when they are ten months old.

There ain't so much difference between a nickel cigar and a 10-cent cigar after all. When a feller buys a nickel cigar it takes a nickel's worth of matches to keep it goin'.

One needed invention is a two-piece suit that will last two seasons. The feller who gets excited may splash around quite a lot, but the quiet feller knocks off the persimmons.

Anse Frisby's son lives in a flat down to the city. It is so small that his wife has to set her bread out doors so it will have room to swell up.

There are a whole lot of famous diplomats in this world who can't frame up a good excuse for getting home late, which will convince the wives.

The feller who invented the type-writer increased the output of anonymous letters about 90 per cent.

When a feller is walking, the darned oastmobiles are in the way and when a fellow is driving, the darned pedestrians are in the way. It is all in the point of view.

JUST A LITTLE SMILE

False Hopes.

"Poor Bob had a dreadful disappointment last week."

"What was it?"

"His employer told him he was going to give him a raise, and when the poor fellow's hopes were raised to the highest peak what do you think the employer did?"

"What did he do?"

"Invited Bob to take a ride with him in a captive balloon."

Their Sorry Plight.

"This weather is certainly rough on some people."

"The poor, I presume, you refer to?"

"No, the almost rich."

"I don't understand you."

"The fellows who own fur overcoats. It's too warm to wear them, and it's too cold to go without them."

An Unfortunate Child.

"They say that Mrs. Waddington's little boy is ambidextrous," said Mrs. Oldcastle.

"Land sakes!" exclaimed Mrs. Got talotte, "is that so? Ain't it too bad? They expected he was goin' to be all right after they got his tonsils cut out."

An Collection.

"Did you sell any of your oil paintings to the lady?"

"No, she's a temperance crank."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Won't buy any but water colors."

Degeneration.

"The ancient Romans seem to have got a lot of fun out of gladiators fighting to the death."

"And in these times they won't even let us kill an occasional umpire!"

MAYBE.

Miss Chance—Miss Antique says her engagement ring cost a hundred dollars.

Miss Caustique—I guess he means that she spent that much entertaining the man before she got it.

Backs to the Farm.

Make doctors, lawyers, merchants of all boys, if you're geese; And in a few years' time you'll be fifty cents apiece.

Making a Date.

Latin Teacher—Now, you may give me an example of the dative.

High School Girl (with her mind elsewhere)—I will meet you at 8 o'clock.—Puck.

Knew One Different, Probably.

"I'm sure she isn't married."

"Why?"

"She started to argue the question when Mrs. Hulver said all men are alike."

Model of Politeness.

"Mrs. X. is as polite as an echo."

"As an echo? What do you mean by that?"

"She never fails to return one's call."

Sympathy and a Knock.

"I'm so sorry for Mrs. Green."

"Why?"

"She has so much trouble, poor thing, and it's all her own fault, too."

Don't Mention It.

"Pardon me, sir," said she, "for walking on your feet."

"Don't mention it, miss," he replied. "I walk on them myself at times."

Where Engagements Take Place.

"The canons of a church are found in the pulpits," observed the Observer of Events and Things, "but most of the fighting is done in the choir."

Hand Painted.

Redd—Mrs. Black claims her face is her fortune.

Greene—Well, she's made it nearly all herself.

HELPING THE CAUSE.

"A drummer," said Medill McCorkick, "was waiting at Nola Chucky for the Southern Cannonball Limited. The train crawled in at last, nine hours late—a ramshackle, clattering thing, as ridiculous as an old-fashioned high-wheeled bicycle."

"The drummer got aboard. There seemed to be only one other passenger. The locomotive hooted, the bell clanged, the wheels spun around, and steam hissed, but the train failed to move. Then there were more hoots, more puffs and hisses, and still the train didn't budge. Finally, after a third vain effort, the engineer got down and shouted to the passengers, whose heads stuck anxiously out of their respective windows:

"Say, I'll have to ask you two cents to climb off till I get her started!"—New York Tribune.

Not Very Near.

"So your name is George Washington?" asked the employer.

"Yes, sah," replied the colored man who was applying for the job of porter.

"Any relation to the great George Washington?"

"Why, he's dead, boss."

"Oh, yes; he died many years ago."

"Well, if he's related to me, boss, he must be a very distant relation."

ALL THE MOTORIST SAW.

Parker—Tell me about Switzerland—romantic Switzerland.

Barker—Well, there are a few bad places as you come down the mountains, but in the main the roads are pretty good.

Brute!

The June groom said he'd cherish her, Love her and never tire; And now he lies abed and lets Her rise and build the fire.

His Specialty.

"What particular qualification has your friend, the magistrate, for leading our amateur orchestra?"

"He is such a good authority on, giving out time."

Agreed.

"When one reads of unsanitary bakeries, this question of home-made bread becomes a weighty one."

"It is weighty, indeed, if your wife undertakes to make it."

A Need.

"There ought to be some place where people can be treated who think they are actors."

"Well, there are plenty of places where they cure hams."

His End.

"Jinks had a perfect craze for antiques."

"Perhaps he had, but he need not have carried his mania so far as to have married one."

Her Specialty.

"It is queer that the dressmaker you patronize is so popular."

"What is queer about it?"

"I understand she gives her customers particular fits."

Tact.

She—Here's a man says women are not honest.

He—Well, aren't they always robbing men of their peace of mind and their hearts?

TRUE.

Miss Chance—Men like women with intelligence.

Miss Wise—Yes, provided they have enough of it to refrain from impressing the man with his ignorance.

Paradoxical.

I watched a girl upon the street And marvelled as she wobbled; How she could beat it, as she did, And yet be straightly hobbled.

Unusual Case.

"Dibbs is a remarkable man."

"In what particular?"

"He's been married six months and his wife still looks up to him."

CLOSE RUB.

The steamed was on the point of leaving and the passengers lounged on the deck and waited for the start. At length one of them espied a cyclist in the far distance, and it soon became evident that he was doing his level best to catch the boat.

Already the sailors' hands were on the gangways, and the cyclist's chance looked small, indeed. Then a sporting passenger wagered a sovereign to a shilling that he would miss it. The offer was taken and at once the deck became a scene of wild excitement.

"He'll miss it!"

"No; he'll just do it."

"Come on!"

"He won't do it."

"Yes, he will. He's done it. Hurrah!"

In the very nick of time the cyclist arrived, sprang off his machine and ran up the one gangway left.

Puzzled.

"Did you ask your girl's father for her hand in marriage?"

"I did."

"And he refused you. I can tell by the way you look."

"No, he didn't. He gave his consent."

"Then why the peculiar look you are wearing?"

"He was so darned willing."

WELL AIRED.

He—Miss Bigmouth talks incessantly, doesn't she?

She—Yes; she claims that a person's opinions get musty if they aren't aired.

Compensations.

"I've no complaint to make," said one Who found few joys along life's way, But from the law he'd never run And always had three meals a day.

Good Advice.

"My child, when a man offers you his hand always take one precaution before you answer."

"What's that, mother?"

"See if he has anything in it."

Different Kinds.

"I'm going to the office now to pound my typewriter."

"Why not?"

"Belongs to an athletic club."

The Author's Rewards.

"How much did you make out of your new book?"

"Breakfast, dinner and supper for two weeks only, but I'm thinking of getting out a second edition."

Early Training.

"The lawyer whose cleverness you admire so much, began life as a milkman's boy."

"That explains how well he knows how to pump his witnesses."

The Poor Freshman.

Senior—What do you think of the Culebra cut?

Fresh—Well—er—I never tried it. The sophs won't let me smoke a pipe.

—California Pelican.

Too Good to Lend.

Agnes—This novel looks awfully interesting. Is it good?

Gladys—It's perfectly splendid. I'd lend it to you in a minute, but it belongs to me.—Life.

MEAN.

Hoax—Did your landlord remember you this Christmas?

Joax—Yes. He raised my rent to ten more a month.

Not Missed.

And when a pessimist pegs out, Drains life's last drop and drops the cup, The hole he leaves is like the hole They put him in, 'tis soon filled up.

Consistent Patronage.

"Why can't women hold positions in the postoffice?"

"Why, you know, they are strictly mail jobs."

HELD HILL FIVE WEEKS

MEMORIAL COMMEMORATES BRAVE ACT OF PIONEER.

Early Colorado Settler, With His Family, Held War Party of Indians at Bay on Spot Now Known as "Simpson's Rest."

Prominent among the rocky, mesa-like hills that surround Denver, is a rugged, gray point, within the outskirts of the town, known as "Simpson's Rest." Recently there was erected on this hill a monument commemorating the brave fight put up at this spot by John Simpson, one of the earliest settlers of Colorado, against a war party of Utes and Cheyennes in 1855. The Indian fighter and his wife are buried on top of the hill.

The Utes and Cheyennes made the foothills and the plains adjoining the Rockies their hunting ground, but they rarely gave trouble to settlers. Consequently, one May morning in 1855, when Simpson's children, Bob and Nora, aged 15 and 13, were making their way to a small stream near their home, they were surprised to see a large party of Indians riding toward them at a terrific pace, shaking their lances and uttering blood-thirsty cries. At the same time they heard a cry from the direction of the cabin, and saw their father running toward them with his rifle in his hand.

Simpson had just returned from an expedition. He had heard that the Cheyennes and Utes had gone on the warpath, and he had hastened home just in time to rescue his family. Seeing the trapper, the Indians hesitated, for Simpson's fame as a shot had spread throughout the frontier, and the redskins knew that several among them would meet death if they persisted in their attempt to capture the children.

Two burros were packed with provisions, a keg of water and all the ammunition the trapper possessed. Driving the burros ahead of them the members of the little family set out from the house. Simpson covered the Indians with his rifle when they approached too near, and the family was unmolested. The hill which appeared to the trapper as a good place for defense was accessible only by a single narrow, rocky path, up which one must climb today in reaching the summit of "Simpson's Rest." The summit of the hill is flat, about half an acre in extent and surrounded by a high rocky wall. It would be impossible to storm such a natural fortress except by over-powering the defenders at the narrow defile which served as an entrance.

The Indians saw that it was hopeless to attempt to storm the natural fortress, so they surrounded the hill and began a siege in the endeavor to "starve out" the defenders. The siege has no parallel in the history of the west. For five weeks the plucky pioneer and his family held their fortress. They killed their burros when provisions ran low. Fortunately, there had been heavy rains, and depressions in the rocks at the top of the hill were filled with water, giving an ample supply. At the end of the fifth week, when hope was nearly abandoned, the Indians suddenly brought in their ponies and rode away with shrill cries. A troop of cavalry from Fort Lyon, 150 miles distant, which had been sent out to render aid to any settlers who might have escaped the marauding Indians, soon came in view, and Simpson and his family were rescued.

Woman's Chances.

The plan of the Brooklyn priest who suggests a fine of $100 for every young man who reaches his twenty-fifth birthday unmarried, and a legal requirement that every unmarried woman must propose at least three times each leap year, recalls an interesting table which was once compiled.

Reckoning a woman's entire chance of marrying at 100, the table purports to give her varying chances at different times of life. For example, between the ages of 15 and 20 her chance is 14 1/2 per cent. Between 20 and 25 it jumps to 52 per cent, falling between 25 and 30 to 18, and to 15 per cent. between 30 and 35. After 40 it is only 2 per cent., and after 50 she has only one chance in 1,000.

The priest thinks that "training, tradition and the natural bashfulness of the American girl" keep her from speaking first. Undoubtedly they do, and it is to be hoped they will continue so to do. "Natural bashfulness," as the father calls it, will go farther and faster in getting a good husband than any amount of cultivated boldness.

Wanted It, and Got It.

Here is a story that will be as pleasing to a true American as it will be obnoxious to a European. Arthur Gleason tells of Joseph Fels in the World's Work. It is about Mr. Fels' invasion of London.

He looked around the streets a bit, and found the office he wished, the right situation and right size.

"I'll take it," he said to the owner.

"But that is not customary. To whom will you refer me? To your solicitor?"

"I haven't any."

"But friends of yours in London?"

"I came here yesterday, haven't got acquainted with anybody yet. Here's the rental money for the first six months. Take it or leave it."

"But won't tomorrow be more satisfactory for coming to a settlement?"

"That's one day too late. I want the office today, now."

He got his office.

HE LEFT BUSYBODY THINKING

Urchin's Line of Fun With Man Who Needs Must Fry into Other People's Business.

The small urchin climbed up the car steps and wormed himself into a seat beside the Busybody. The basket he was carrying the youngster fixed carefully between his feet, with several anxious glances in the process.

"What have you in that basket, my boy?" asked his neighbor, bending over confidentially. "I noticed how careful you were of it. It must be something quite valuable. Isn't it?"

"Ye're hep, old sport. It's something that's worth a whole heap."

"Well, won't you tell me what it is?"

"Not on yer life! Thing I want to get pinched?"

This was too much for the Busybody. His curiosity, heretofore merely casual, grew suddenly pointed, and he bit.

"Well, sonny, I've a notion that if I gave you a nickel you'd tell me what you had in that basket."

"Make it a dime, and I'll do it!" whispered the boy. "Only ye've got to promise not to give me away to do cop."

"Why, of course I'll promise."

The boy pocketed the coin. "Well, sport, dey's a baby in dere. I hooked 'im, an' put 'im inside when dey wasn't nobody lookin'. Now I'll get a reward for returnin' 'im."

"Why, you young villain! Do you mean to say you have a baby in that basket? Lying in that thing will kill it. Where did you get it?"

"Oh, I picked it up in front o' one o' dem big stores. It was all alone, so I jus' took it. I guess it won't be missed, an' I wanted one, any way."

"Not be missed! See here, you young blackguard! Do you mean to say that its mother had deserted it?"

"Sure! Its mudder wasn't nowhere round."

"How old is it?"

"Oh, a few months, I guess. Big enough to squeal—so I tied a rag round its mouf."

"Well, lift up the cover and let me see how it looks."</

STERLING BUBBLES WITH JOY.

The Sterling papers are bragging in their usual pompous manner of what they claim is a wonderful victory. They have gotten Barnum & Bailey's circus away from Dixon, they crow, "Poor old Dixon," they jeer.

They state, modestly (for them), that some of their shrewd, indeed, fox-like, business men, who saw in the Dixon papers that Dixon was considering allowing the circus to come here, immediately went to Chicago and induced the management of the circus to change the plans, and go to Sterling. The cunning and brilliant method used in getting the circus to go to Sterling was an offer of $200, which will defray the expenses of ground rental, licenses, etc.

The lad who thought of that scheme is a genius.

Now, Sterling, Dixon does not rave and tear her hair because the circus isn't coming here. Your kind sympathy expressed in Saturday's issue was very thoughtful, though misplaced. We'll keep quite calm and bear the loss with dignity and fortitude.

(You see, folks, the way those Sterling papers carry on about this circus thing, they appear to think the capital of the nation has been moved down there and the course of the Mississippi is to be changed to run through their back pasture. We can't understand what ails 'em. Probably a circus means a great deal to Sterling. Possibly we have been too harsh. We apologize most humbly. We are ashamed of our criticism of our small neighbor. Really, when you stop to think of it, the little fellow's glee over the prospect of seeing a real circus is very natural and pardonable.

FAVOR THE WALKERS.

There is an agitation in Dixon among the automobile owners, to have the sprinkling of the Galena avenue wagon and foot bridge discontinued, on the grounds that the water makes the bridge floor slippery and dangerous and makes auto wheels skid.

Those who want the sprinkling stopped, so that they may go shooting across the bridge thirty miles an hour, dodging around more cautious drivers, forget that while they are doing that their less fortunate neighbors, who are walking across the bridge, as hundreds of them must do several times daily, are being literally covered with dust and dirt.

Any autoist will admit that there is absolutely no danger in crossing the bridge, no matter how wet it is, if he DRIVES SLOW ENOUGH. Therefore, we believe it fair enough for the autoists to drive slowly and carefully and keep within traffic regulations, than for the pedestrians to be discomfited and annoyed by the dirt of the "joy riders."

Most of the auto drivers are of the same opinion. It is only a few of the more reckless speeders who wish to appropriate the bridge for their own use, regardless of the rights of others.

Drive slowly and keep to the right, and there is no danger. The bridge was built with the money of all the people and the rights of the majority should be observed first. Public property should not be devoted to the wants of a favored few.

COMPENSATION
LAW IN EFFECTLOCAL EMPLOYERS PREPARING TO GET UNDER ACT FOR PROTECTION.

OPTIONAL WITH THE EMPLOYERS NOTE EXPLAINS TRAGIC DEED

Are Not Obligated to Sign an Agreement to Work Under Act—Court Resort.

There is one law which went into effect July 1st which is of more importance to Dixonites than any other and that is the state workman's compensation act.

In a way this act is optional with the employers. They may remain within the act or without it as they see fit, or as the risks of their plant appear to dictate. If they wish to remain without the act they must file a notice with the industrial board, but if they fail to do this they come automatically within the act.

If without the act they take the risks of settling all injury cases either with the party injured on a basis acceptable to the injured or fight the case in the courts.

If within the act they are compelled to pay certain compensations provided by the law to employees injured while in the discharge of their duty.

Compensations Provided

Included in the act are regulations for the payment of compensations to injured employees to fit practically all cases. The following cases are provided for:

In case of an injury resulting in death: If the injured man leaves a widow or children, father or mother to whose support he has contributed, a sum equal to four times his yearly earnings shall be paid to the heirs, providing this sum is not less than $1000 nor more than $3000.

Minor injuries: In case of minor injuries all medical, doctor and hospital fees will be paid by the employer for the first eight weeks of disability, providing the sum total does not exceed $200.

Weekly indemnity: In case the period of disability exceeds six working days, then on the eighth day the employer shall begin paying a weekly indemnity equal to one-half the injured's weekly earnings, provided this sum shall be not less than $5 nor more than $12 per week indemnity. The indemnity to be paid as long as the injured is incapacitated, providing that the sum total does not exceed what would have been the amount due his heirs in case of death.

Partial disability: In case of partial disability the case may be arbitrated, but the amount paid shall not exceed one-fourth of the amount in case of death.

Permanent disability: If the injured is permanently injured the employer shall pay him during a period of eight years a sum equal to one-half his average earnings for the year previous provided this sum paid is not less than $5 nor more than $12 per week.

FAMILY THEATRE

Four reels of latest motion pictures will be shown the first days of the week and only five cents admission charged. For the last half of the week an excellent vaudeville bill is booked and the usual admission of 10 cents will prevail. Manager Plein wishes to announce that the regular vaudeville season will open August 11 and as a special attraction for the whole week Madame Gertrude, the world's greatest success, has been engaged and the theatre goers are requested to watch from time to time further interesting announcements about this act.

AGED MAN DIES OF BROKEN HEARTAGED GREEN OAK RESIDENT TAKES LIFE WITH

Henry Morel Drinks Carbolic Acid to End Illness from Brooding Over Daughter's Disgrace

Henry Morel, a Burlington section foreman, 66 years old, took his own life at Green Oak last Sunday afternoon. He swallowed an ounce of carbolic acid with suicidal intent about 11 o'clock and died about two hours later.

He was driven to suicide by a broken heart. Two years ago when his daughter, Mrs. Will Anson, eloped with a hired man, Mr. Morel began to decline in health, and in a note to his wife and family found after his death, he explained that he could stand the strain no longer. Mr. Morel was thought to be suffering with nervous exhaustion.

A number of times recently Mr. Morel intimated that he intended to destroy himself. He told W. E. Kitzmiller, manager of the Farmers' Elevator company, on July 3, that he was feeling ill and that it was hard to tell what that condition would lead him to some day.

Mr. Morel retired to his room at noon and shortly afterwards he called his son Arthur and told him he had taken a dose of poison. An empty carbolic acid bottle was found in the room.

TO GUARD NICARAGUA

U. S. May Appoint Protectorate
Over Nation.Bryan's Plan Indicates Policy of Government Toward Central American Republics.

Washington, July 21.—Secretary of State Bryan at a private conference with members of the senate foreign relations committee outlined a new American policy toward Nicaragua, involving virtual control of the affairs of that government by a trust protectorate similar to that exercised over Cuba.

At the same conference Mr. Bryan urged renewal of arbitration treaties with France, Great Britain and other countries.

Under the proposed plan Nicaragua would agree in substance:

That war should not be declared without the consent of the United States.

That no treaties should be made with foreign governments that would tend to destroy its independence or that would give those governments a foothold in the republic.

That no public debt would be contracted beyond the ordinary resources of the government, as indicated by the ordinary revenues.

That the United States should have the right to intervene at any time to preserve Nicaraguan independence or to protect life or property.

That the United States should have the exclusive right to build a canal across Nicaragua, and should have a 99-year lease to a naval base in the bay of Fonseca and to the Great Corn and Little Corn islands in the Caribbean sea, with the privilege of renewing the lease. The United States in return would pay Nicaragua $3,000,000 to be used in public works and education.

Women Knights.

It is not at all well known that knighthood has constantly been conferred upon women. Many English ladies received the accolade and many more were members of such knightly orders as the Garter and St. John. When Mary Chomondeley "the bold lady of Cweshire," was knighted by Elizabeth for "her valiant address," on the queen taking the command at the threatened invasion of Spain, did she know that a whole city of Spanish women, the gallant women of Tortosa, had been knighted for saving that city from the Moors? Mary and Elizabeth had both been knighted at their coronation, but by the time Anne, the second Mary, and Victoria ascended the throne it had been quite forgotten that according to English law and use a woman who filled a man's office acquired all its privileges and was immune from none of its duties.

Confusion of Effects.

"Things didn't seem to work together in your series of dramatic representations."

"They didn't," admitted Mr. Stormington Barnes. "When we played tragedy the box-office receipts were a farce, and when we played farce they were a tragedy."

TALKS ON STATE AFFAIRS

Cabinet Member Discusses Tariff and Other Important Matter Following
Free Lectures at Winona Lake, Ind.

Winona Lake, Ind., July 21.—Secretary of State Bryan, who last night concluded two Chautauqua addresses here, has canceled his speaking dates for the last three days of this week in order that he may return to Washington to confer with the president and Ambassador Wilson on the Mexican situation.

Pleased Over Tariff.

In an interview, given while strolling over fields, the chief officer of the Wilson cabinet talked enthusiastically of such important matters as the tariff and currency questions, peace negotiations, and the Japanese and Mexican situations.

"Your opinion of tariff legislation would be interesting," was suggested as an opening query.

"I believe that the tariff bill will satisfy the country," said the secretary of state, in reply. "It is better than I had hoped for, and the senate instead of emasculating it, as some senators have done in the past, has really improved it. So that it will go forth as the joint action of the two houses, with the indorsement of the President and will, I believe, strengthen the party before the country."

Discusses Currency Plans.

"One cannot help noticing the difference," continued the secretary, "between the present situation and that which confronted us when former efforts were made to reduce the tariff. When you can see no such attempts today to frighten the country as we have seen in the past. On the contrary, we see a general acquiescence in the bill, and a disposition even on the part of the Republicans to give it a fair trial."

Concerning the currency bill, Secretary Bryan had this to say:

"Committees of congress are discussing the bill and there is a growing approval of its general principles. Some changes are likely to be made in the details of the bill, but the main provisions are not apt to be altered."

The secretary was asked about the new peace program.

Expects Peace Treaties.

"Twenty-three nations have accepted the principle," he declared, happily, "and the details are being considered. I think it is reasonably safe to predict that before the first year of the present administration has expired twenty-five nations will have joined with us in treaties along the lines proposed. I think it is more likely to be thirty."

"Will you say a word about the Japanese controversy?" he was asked. "The discussion between the two countries is proceeding in a satisfactory manner," he replied, after a moment's thought. "Both countries desire an amicable solution of the difficulties."

He was queried concerning Mexico and admitted readily that this situation was somewhat serious. He said: "I cannot say there is anything really serious, but the President is keeping himself fully informed and is doing all that can be done."

To Confer on Mexico.

The secretary goes back to Washington the latter part of the week to meet Ambassador Wilson, recently called from Mexico City for a conference with the President and the secretary of state. What developments are likely to follow that conference Secretary Bryan declined to discuss.

This being the secretary's first "invasion" of the central west since the "Chautauqua war" was declared, his coming to Winona Lake needed no special advertising. Always a big "drawing card," as the promoters say, recent first page publicity increased the interest in his local appearance.

Mr. Bryan will continue to lecture at Chautauquas in neighboring Indiana towns for a few days, and probably will go out to Iowa next week, meanwhile returning to the capital on business of state. He talked in the afternoon on "The Making of a Man."

Gets No Pay for Speeches.

Mr. Bryan received no compensation for the speeches he made here. The gates of the Chautauqua grounds were thrown open, the crowds being admitted free. Mr. Bryan said he would return here to address the Bible conference on August 22.

MRS. PANKHURST FOILS 'COPS'

English Militant Leader Flees While Detectives Chase Woman.

London, July 21.—Again Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, suffragette leader, has outwitted the police. The officers discovered that the woman arrested Saturday was not Mrs. Pankhurst, but a suffragette impersonating her; so they freed the prisoner. It developed that the impersonation was a well-laid scheme to enable Mrs. Pankhurst to escape rearrest after having been freed under license.

Birmingham, July 21.—A large house at Sellyoak, a suburb, was burned. Suffragette placards were found near by.

POULTRY CULTURE.

Article VIII.

Incompetence—Failure in poultry plants has often been due to incompetent or ignorant men attempting something beyond their powers. And sometimes capable men fail because of lack of instruction and training in this special line of work. Proper facilities for hatching and rearing the chicks may have been lacking.

Deaths—Raising perfect chickens is not like making shoes or singlets. The peculiar factor which is termed life has to be reckoned with and like wise, also, its counterpart, death. It is difficult to see how anyone can build up successfully a business in which there sometimes occurs a season's loss by death of 50 per cent of the chickens hatched, to say nothing of poor hatches to start with. The breeding stock must first be right.

Then the poultryman must know how to make the chicks hatch and live. He must be willing to work hard.

Feed Waste—A leak that often drains away the possible profit is the waste in feed and feeding. The rations are sometimes supplied without regard to the special needs of the fowls at different seasons and under varying conditions. Cleanliness must be insisted upon.

Lost Labor—Unreliable helpers are a frequent source of failure. Inefficient, ill-applied or useless labor costs much money and brings no adequate returns. Labor saving toils, appliances and conveniences which actually facilitate the work and economize expenses are desirable. Every step, every motion of the keeper of the fowls should count for gain on the poultry plant.

Managers—The manager of the poultry plant should have that quality—ability to manage men so as to make their labor economically effective. Have each helper do the part he can do best. Arrange a schedule of regular days and hours for regular work. Plan the work so that everything will be ready to begin when the time comes, then see that the men work right along. Allow no visitors to interrupt their labors.

The poultry plant should not be built too large to commence with. Study the local conditions, especially the markets, with regard to both the sale of the products and the purchase of supplies. Experiment a little under the conditions of the given localities. Test the poultry specialties that seem most promising, then extend and develop the business along the particular lines that experience has proven to be the most profitable and safe.

Little Capital—The young poultry man with little capital may begin by supplying families with fresh eggs, later furnishing them with table fowls. In time he may take up breeding of fancy fowls. After the undertaking is in running order scrutinize every expenditure as carefully as is done by the big corporations. Small things must be looked after. Waste no by-product. Pay liberally for "brains" to help if necessary for good breeding stock and for effective advertising, but be stingy and yet sensible about other expenses. The available capital must be sufficient to purchase the foundation live stock, to properly house the same and to buy the necessary appliances Money must

The Story of Scotch.
Scotch was a short-nosed collic, with a slight strain of shepherd blood and had a face that was exceptionally expressive and pleasing. When grown he was a trifle larger than the average dog and was surprisingly agile and powerful for his size. His coat was a shaggy, silky black, with feet, tip of tail, and breast of pure white.

How They Kept Their Word.
If you happened to be in the town of Scituate and should see two men engaged in an ordinary conversation, with the exception that they were standing back to back and looking directly away from each other, you may be sure that they are the Litchfield brothers. And the wherefore of their strange relative positions originated many years ago, when both were young and lived at home with the old folks.

"A Great Friend of Mine."

Way is it that when people who are rather superior or distinguished are mentioned that phrase "a great friend of mine" is attached to them? Turn your thoughts to the best-bred people you know, the people in whose society it is a real privilege to be included; do you notice how seldom they refer to people whom you don't know? After all, their intercourse is with you and naturally well-bred people think of the interests of those they talk to, and have no desire to drag in their private affairs and friends for the sake of forming an impressive picture in their friends' minds.

The Oldest Egg.

Not so long ago a party of explorers, members of the Archaeological society of Mayence, found, during their excavations in the ancient Moguntiacum, a hen's egg which was estimated to have been buried for something like nine hundred years.

Moguntiacum was built by Drusus, the son of the Roman Emperor Augustus, in the year 14 B. C. Upon the site of the ancient Roman castrum or encampment near the city the excavations in question brought to light many interesting relics, including some water cisterns of Roman make.

It was in one of these, which was located twenty feet below the ground, that a damaged Roman clay pot was found containing the shell of a broken egg and also a whole egg that had been kept from being smashed by a shard of the damaged pot, which covered it. The ancient egg was turned over to the municipal museum.—Harpers Weekly.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

Mayor of Ranier (Minn.) Is Arrested.

Chief Executive Said to Have Been Near Crowd Who Killed Man.

International Falls, July 21.—Mayor Edeke of this city is out on bail following his arrest charged with being an accessory to murder as the result of the death of F. J. Couture of the same city, who was beaten to death. James Kelly is charged with the murder.

Kelly and Edeke will be given a hearing Tuesday.

Couture recently appeared before the grand jury and testified that there is not even a pretense of law observance at Ranier, that the saloons are open all night, that gamblers are permitted to conduct games openly and that disreputable houses are protected.

A gang said to represent the lawless element, gathered at one of the Ranier saloons, according to the story told here. The band marched to the Ranier hotel, conducted by Couture.

Couture was asked if he had testified to certain facts before the grand jury and on receiving an affirmative answer, the crowd attacked and beat him until he became unconscious. He then was left on the walk, where he was found by citizens and brought to the hospital here, where he died.

It is charged that Mayor Edeke was in the crowd.

RAIL PEACE BELIEVED NEAR

Conference Today Expected to End Trouble.

New York, July 21.—Late tonight the country will probably know whether or not the conductors and trainmen on the eastern railroads will make effective the threat to strike because of the refusal of the managers to grant a 20 per cent increase in pay.

If it is possible for the employees and the conference committee representing the railroads to agree on arbitration, the articles will be signed immediately, as provided in the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act.

A conference which brought together the union leaders and the railroad officials is being held at the Manhattan hotel. The negotiations are conducted under the supervision of Judge Martin A. Knapp, Judge William Lea Chambers and G. W. W. Hanger, the commissioners of mediation appointed by President Wilson, who were confirmed by the senate late on Saturday.

U. S. CITIZENS IN PERIL

Mexican Bandits Threaten Lives of Americans.

El Paso, Tex., July 21.—Armed Mexican bandits, headed by El Mocho Martinez, who were repulsed with the loss of nine men by American cowboys on the Babloro ranch of William R. Hearst, near Madera, Chihuahua, two weeks ago, now threaten the lives of the few Americans remaining in the Madera lumber camp.

John Parks, an American butcher of Madera, was slashed across the face with a sword by El Mocho and lost one ear a few days ago, when Martinez's band held him up for money at his slaughter house, five miles from the lumber town.

HEROES IN DAILY LIFE WORST OF ALL HOURS

NOT ALL BRAVE DEEDS ARE DONE ON FIELD OF BATTLE.

Demand of Duty Responded to, Frequently With Sublime Heroism, in the Common, Every Day Walks of Humdrum Employment.

While war in the very nature of things, abounds in opportunities for valiant exploits, and its every deed is written large on the page of history, the humbler and quieter sphere of private life affords even more and keener opportunities for the display of true heroism, writes Gen. H. M. Chittenden in The Forum. The physician or nurse who voluntarily goes in to a plague-stricken district, the miner who braves the fire-damp to rescue his imprisoned fellows, the crew who stand at their posts while their vessel is sinking, the fireman who scales a tottering wall to save a human life, the patrolman who enters a den of desperadoes at imminent personal risk—wherever, in the pursuance of duty, no matter how humble, subordinates his personal safety to that duty—is as much entitled to the commendation of heroism as a soldier who does his duty in war can possibly be.

War against physical nature and the evils of human nature, and their ultimate subjugation to the intellectual and spiritual dominion of man, constitute a struggle which will give ample scope to the energies of the race beyond our remotest ken. We cannot even guess its ultimate possibilities; but so long as there are mountain barriers to be overcome, floods to be controlled, deserts and swamps to be reclaimed; or so long as men are denied equal opportunities, and "predatory wealth" has any other than a historic meaning, man need not feel that war is necessary to call forth the best there is in him.

The age of true heroism, the age of the ideal "strenuous life"—when some philosopher of the distant future shall write a history of civilization—will not be that of Alexander or Caesar or Napoleon, but of those later periods when the energy of the race is directed to friendly co-operation instead of bloody conflict or incessant preparation therefor. It will be an age in which every virtue of militarism will find a higher and fuller expression, while its manifest vices, and particularly the horrors of war, will be laid aside. Let nations wage all the Panama wars that they like—the more the better—but let them outgrow as rapidly as possible their Gravelottes and Plevnas and Port Arthurs.

Greenland Is Green.
Greenland is green in more ways than one. Its wonderful miniature trees are a most beautiful green, and travelers declare no such color is found elsewhere in the world.

Greenland is practically a great group of green mountains covered with ice that has a green tint, and which has formed great icebound glaciers, that are tied between the mountain ranges and can be penetrated only by a drill.

Where the sun strikes with sufficient force the ice and snow let go, and the glaciers, which are called "live," often melt enough to slide and dash down the mountain, or drop with an awful force into the inlets. Very often such glaciers do a lot of damage to shipping that has sought shelter in bays or inlets.

During the long night period, the country is often illuminated with what we term northern lights, or aurora borealis. Without this electrical display, the country would be wrapped in darkness of a peculiar density.

Shoe Dealer Duke.
The story of how a grand duke, a near relation of the czar of Russia, came to be a boot and shoe dealer on the Nevsky Prospekt comes from St. Petersburg. Some time ago a woman from Paris appeared in the Russian capital, covered with diamonds. It was loudly whispered that this woman was a protegee of the grand duke; that the money that paid for all this display came out of the admiralty treasury and would have paid the crews of many ships in the war with Japan. One evening at a reception this woman was hooted and was obliged to withdraw. The czar drove her away and dismissed the grand duke in disgrace. His career having thus been closed he opened the shoe store. Now he has been pardoned and restored to his rank. But his shoe store continues to do business and all the officers who are under his orders are wise enough to patronize it in order not to put anything in the way of their advancement.

Nova Scotia Eelgrass.
United States Consul Albert J. Fleming of Yarmouth, N. S., reports that the exportations of eelgrass to the port of Boston in the latter part of 1911 were the largest in the history of that traffic, the amount in two months being 237 tons, the gross price of which was $10 a ton. This practically cleaned up the crop in the storage barns, but since then large quantities were gathered, and, after drying, the grass was stored to supply the demand during the next season.

Eelgrass is practically unlimited in supply in that region, and it is hoped that larger shipments will be made in the near future. The principal use is for mats and cheap mattresses, but the Yarmouth firms who are engaged in buying from small producers and marketing the commodity, believe that the eelgrass can be used in the manufacture of coarse wrapping paper.

IT BEGINS WHEN ONE WAKES UP AT 2 IN THE MORNING.

Everyone Else Is Asleep, You Are Helpless and Isolated and the House Is Full of Strange Noises.

Did you ever wake up at some unknown hour and listen for the clock to strike and experience a great sense of relief that it counted four instead of two? You knew then that things would be stirring before long; that the milk wagons would soon be going past, and that you weren't to remain the only person awake west of New York. It is insisted that the first three hours of sleep are the soundest of all. However that may be, it certainly is a fact that if you get to sleep at all you rarely awaken before two o'clock. Besides, the early part of the night isn't particularly lonesome. You know that people are getting home from the theaters and that up to say, one o'clock, the town is just settling down to sleep. But when some noise, or what you ate at dinner, arouses you to hear the clock strike two, you are overwhelmed by the feeling of your own helplessness and isolation. You feel quite sure, can be awake for any good purpose.

The house is full of curious creaks and groans. What is that strange noise in the next room? It must be the window shade flapping in the wind. . . . Of course, it must be. . . . Still, it might be somebody moving ever so stealthily. . . . You lie perfectly quiet and listen, straining your ears for some peculiarity of the sound that will settle its character.

Yes, it is the window shade. But now comes a crash from the kitchen—a distinct crash; no trick of the imagination. Did you lock the kitchen window before you went to bed? You think you did, but a haunting doubt comes over you. Maybe it was the cat. But wasn't the cat put down cellar? Possibly the cellar door wasn't quite latched. The cat might have got back into the kitchen.

Now one of the children sneezes—sneezes repeatedly. He didn't seem to have any cold when he went to bed. Perhaps he has tickled the clothes off. You would better go see. No, he is covered up. Why should he have sneezed? Can he be coming down with pneumonia, or scarlet fever, or something? A good many serious diseases begin with a bad cold. Perhaps he is feverish. You feel his hands. They do feel hot—or are you own cold? You give it up and go back to bed. Could you get the doctor if you needed him? You strain to listen for more sneezes or for the restlessness that betrays a fever. No, there isn't anything.

Once more the clock strikes—one, two, three. Only three. If it were only four morning would be near. You are worn to a frazzle by this time. You know you never can get to sleep again, and the worst of it is that you don't dare thrash around, as you would like to for fear you might wake your wife. Thank goodness, she has slept through all these terrors. You start to counting, get to 47, and then forget to go on in the strain of listening for more noises. You are on the verge of despair. Can it be that the clock is striking again? Yes, seven, and it's morning. You had dozed off, after all.

Isn't morning great? And isn't the hour from two to three the dearest of all the 24—Kansas City Times.

Some Rare Designs.
The demand among the wealthy American women for rare and costly china is keeping the great china factories of the world working overtime. The greater part of the china manufactured, it is reported, is shipped to this country. Society women seeking to have something new and original now have hit on having plates of rare design for every course.

"This fashion," said an importer, "has been set by women who can afford to pay $10,000 to $20,000 a set for rare china. Those women wish rare and different designs and they are willing to pay for them on condition that no similar designs are sold in this country. Service, fish, game and entree plates now are being included among the table china in the best stores. Even at that women come to us constantly seeking new pieces and offering to pay large amounts to get something new for the table."

Got Some Slight Revenge.

An incident worthy of melodrama occurred a few days ago at a London (Eng.) prison. Recently a clever swindler, Alfred Moody, had been imprisoned for a long series of frauds on people whom he engaged as cinematograph operators or money-takers, and demanded security for their honesty. One of his victims, a man named Bell, finding himself stranded, obtained food for which he could not pay, and was sent to prison the other morning. To his surprise, while there, he came face to face with Moody, and recognized him as the man whom he had entrusted with $50 and who had been the cause of his downfall. For a few minutes the men stared at each other blankly, and then Bell, thoroughly enraged at the thought of his wrongs, took the law into his own hands and administered a severe thrashing to his enemy before the astonished warders could interfere.

GOT EVEN WITH NEWLYWEDS

Friends Inserted Small "Ad" in Newspaper, and Seekers After Bargains Did the Rest.

Bright dreams of wedded bliss were shattered by a tiny want ad. Instead of a day all by themselves, as they had planned, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Joleen, newlyweds, spent eight strenuous hours receiving strangers, who wanted to buy the brand-new furnishings of their cozy flat at No. 4551 West Van Buren street.

Here is the ad that wrecked their happiness:

FOR SALE—Furniture, entire furnishings of six-room flat, everything new and in first-class condition, including a piano-player. Call Sunday, between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m., at 4551 West Van Buren street. No reasonable offer refused.

The Joleens knew nothing about it. They were serenely happy. The groom was showing his bride the cozy corners of their nest.

"How do you like it, my darling?" he inquired anxiously.

"Oh, Nels, it's just too—"

Mrs. Joleen's reply was interrupted by a hammering at the door.

"Hey! What'll you take for the piano?" asked a man when the door was opened.

"Don't want to sell it. Good day," said Joleen.

Again he turned to his bride. Again a knock on the door.

"I seen your ad in the paper," said another prospective buyer.

"No, you didn't. I didn't have any ad. I don't want to sell anything. I'm busy. Good day," replied Joleen.

All day long Joleen and his wife answered the bell and knocks at the door and turned away the would-be buyers of furniture and piano-players.

About 6 o'clock in the evening it suddenly dawned upon them that the friends whose rice and old shoes they had dodged by leaving the church where they were married through a side entrance after the ceremony, had persevered in their joking and had won.

The groom grinned sheepishly, then called a taxicab. The only quiet moments the couple had during the day were spent at a downtown hotel.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Nature Student.

"The bat, when winter comes," said a nature student, "folds his long ears against his sides, shuts off his heart and, hanging head down from some black corner of barn or smokehouse, hibernates till spring. In March he begins to wake up."

"Lizards and snakes hibernate underground. Frogs hibernate in the frozen mud at the bottom of their ponds. It's nothing to them that they freeze stiff. A frog so stiff frozen in February that you could break him like a soda cracker will thaw out in a warm March as chipper as you please."

"Rats and mice don't hibernate. They come indoors. They leave their cold fields and sewers and they take up their quarters in our nice, warm, steam-heated houses. There it's jolly—plenty to eat, no snow, no sleep, no piercing March winds. The winter season makes no difference to the rats and mice, save that, while always marrying and giving in marriage, they marry and give in marriage more than ever in our comfortable houses, rearing, at our expense and on our food, litters that in their vast numbers would content even a rat Roosevelt."

Honest Pharmacist.

That "honesty is the best policy" is an axiom that has not been received with entire favor in France, may be inferred from the following: Last November a Paris pharmacist who had made a blunder in a medicine that he had prepared discovered soon after delivering it to an unknown woman that he had put into it a most dangerous poison. He inserted in a number of daily papers a notice warning the unknown customer not to use the medicine. This conscientious publication has had a disagreeable result for the pharmacist. He was hunted out by the police for having delivered a poisonous substance without a physician's prescription. He has just settled by paying a fine of 100 francs.

But the customer had not remained unknown or undiscovered. The police had found her. She had not seen any of the notices the pharmacist had put in the papers. But dowered with an excellent scent she had not used the medicine "because it did not seem quite right."

Oriental Metaphor.

The Oriental speaks naturally in metaphor. Even the children continually use figures of speech which are often poetical and always suggestive. The Washington Star thus quotes Bishop Oldham, a missionary bishop of the Methodist church. He writes from Singapore:

"I wish you could hear some of the expressive phrases of the native boys. A lad the other day was describing to me the abstinence of his father."

"Oh, he is content with very little," he said. "Such a very little!" Here he pointed to the ground. "No more than the water in the holes made by a chicken's feet."

"He smiled and resumed:

"He eats nothing. A grain or two of rice contents him. You should see him at his meals. He is like a hound munched flies."

Diplomatic.

"How did you get your wife to forego her desire for that expensive evening gown?"

"Told her it was just the thing a plain woman needed"—Judge.

CAUSES OF APOPLEXY

PRIMARILY RECOGNIZED AS ACCOMPANIMENT OF OLD AGE.

Undue Worry, Even in Those of Comparatively Youthful Years, Will Also Induce Dreaded Malady—Victims Sometimes Recover.

The word "apoplexy" generally means a sudden paralysis caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain; it is popularly called a "stroke." It is a result of a softening of the arteries that often follows primary hardening or arteriosclerosis.

The disease is a common accompaniment of old age, so common indeed that it is regarded by many as the one characteristic senile change.

It is not confined to old age, however, for many comparatively young men who have gone too fast and too far in the pursuit of wealth or who have met with reverses and have worried unduly over them have hardening arteries and are killed or disabled by apoplexy.

In their hardened blood vessels there may be softening spots which, bulged by the hydraulic pressure of the blood, form little aneurisms. A little extra strain on the vessels, caused by some violent emotion or the lifting of a heavy weight or running to catch a train may then rupture one or more of these little aneurisms and so let the blood pour into the brain tissue.

If the blood escapes rapidly and in large amount it causes immediate loss of consciousness and paralysis; if the blood escapes gradually and in small amount it causes either severe headache and tingling and numbness in one or more of the limbs, or progressive loss of power, gradual dulling of the mental faculties and ultimate unconsciousness.

Apoplexy is not always fatal; indeed complete recovery without any paralysis sometimes occurs. The sufferer's immediate fate is commonly decided in two or three days—either he dies without regaining consciousness or his mental faculties gradually return. He is then seen to be paralyzed in either one arm or in one leg, or in one side of the face, or in all three.

In less serious cases the paralysis lessens, the facial expression becomes normal. Even when the paralysis is permanent there is almost always more or less improvement for some weeks after the stroke.

Apoplexy can be treated only by the physician, but those who fear an attack can do much to avert it. Quiet and calm should for them be the rule of life. They should never make any severe muscular effort. They should never run for cars or climb stairs quickly. They should avoid hearty meals and the drinking of much fluid, even water, at any one time.—Youth's Companion.

Parrot's Shrieks Start Murder Scare.

A large green parrot, supposed to have escaped from the Oceana of the Bermuda line, stopped traffic at Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City, and stayed on the job until it had called out the police reserves and the fire apparatus, says the New York Evening World.

Crowds on their way to work were startled to hear loud shrieks coming from an upper floor of the Lincoln Trust company building.

"It's a murder!" said a fat man.

"It's a foreign lady," declared the fat man. "Why don't somebody save her?"

Hundreds of people crowded the streets, when Martin Grady, head porter of the trust company, found the bird in a small recess under the eaves.

When a fireman got half way up the ladder the parrot flew away.

Why Clink Glasses?

"What have you got against that man at the corner table?" asked the bartender of the regular customer.

"That was a positive insult you handed him a minute ago. You never offered to clink glasses with him."

"What's the use?" said the customer. "He is deaf, and deaf men seldom clink glasses. Why should they? They couldn't hear it. People only clink glasses to satisfy the fifth sense. At any rate that was why the original generations have perpetuated the custom. In the ordinary process of quaffing a glass of liquor we are inevitably bound to see the stuff, touch it, smell it, and taste it. That leaves the ear alone unsatisfied. So we clink for its gratification."

Outlook Promising.

On Sixth avenue, New York, two young women walked behind her, conversing audibly above the roar of the elevated.

"And how are you liking your husband?" asked one.

"Oh, he's steady," returned the other; "he don't drink, he stays home nights, and I kind of think I'm going to like him."

How fortunate! thought the woman.

One of Nature's Noblemen.

"Money don't seem to have spoiled Mr. Winkerson a bit."

"I know it. He's just the same as ever. Last night him and his wife come over to play bridge with my husband and I, and he never done a thing to show that he didn't think folks that hadn't money was just as good as anybody, as long as they was refined."—Judge.

HORACE GETS A FLUTE

HE SEES HIMSELF PLAYING ON THE CONCERT STAGE.

But Mother and the Old Horse Disapprove of His Efforts and Father Squeezes His Musical Ambition.

It was an evil day when Horace finished getting enough subscriptions to the Boy's Companion by working his rabbit foot on the neighbors, for as soon as he had secured five subscriptions Horace added 40 cents to the collections, per advertisement, and got a flute.

It was never intended either by nature or the Goddess of Music that Horace and a flute should be combined.

They mixed and mingled and accorded about as nicely as a lead bullet disintegrates and dissolves in skim milk.

But for many weeks Horace had dreamed of that flute with all the fervor of dreams that inhabit the somnolent brain-pan of a fifteen-year-old boy with musical aspirations.

Horace wouldn't have admitted it for the world, but within his narrow chest his heart beat high with hopes, born of visions of himself, clad in irreproachable evening dress, standing on a stage brilliantly lighted and playing to a crowded house that applauded until the canvas flaps flapped in the breeze of their approval. The flute was included in the picture.

It was a fine flute, worth probably 75 cents. The pasteboard box said it was made of cocobolo wood, but you could take a pin and scratch through the cocobolo to the yellow poplar beneath. Also, it was bound with massive German silver bands.

Horace tried the flute at once. His mother, who was in the act of lifting the lid off the soup kettle, forgot what she was doing and dropped the lid with a crash as the steam rose and scalded her.

She descended upon Horace, her fingers wrapped in her apron, which, as any woman knows, is the remedy for injury.

"What in-th-name of all—that's good-and-wonderful," she said, "are you making that awful noise about? And what's that you've got in your hand?"

"It's my flute," said Horace proudly.

"Well, take it and flute somewhere else," said Horace's mother with decision. Horace went sorrowfully toward the barn and sat upon a keg. He essayed "Coming Thro' the Rye."

Old Sam, the faithful family horse, had been dozing in his stall. He had been dreaming of days gone by. Then it happened.

With a snort Sam arose, trembling in every limb, and with one leap broke his halter rope, dashed through the stable, smashed across the wood pile and, breaking through a wire fence, disappeared with supplemental snorts down the road.

Horace looked about him guiltily. Clearly the old horse was getting nervous. But sturdily he set to work to learn "Coming Thro' the Rye."

The sound brought Horace's father out of the lot where he was setting fence posts. The echoes of "Coming Thro' the Rye" died away. Horace's father approached with steady step.

His extended hand was steady. His eyes were steady. His jaw was steady, too.

He took the flute, walked to the door, and cast it into the wide, wide world. Then he pointed to the field.

"There's eighty fence posts out there," he said. And Horace followed the general direction of his finger.—Galveston News.

Nature's Kindly Veil.

"We surely need not wonder that mist and all its phenomena have been made delightful to us, since our happiness as thinking beings must depend on our being content to accept only partial knowledge even in those matters which chiefly concern us. If we insist upon perfect intelligibility and complete declaration in every moral subject, we shall instantly fall into misery of unbelief. Our whole happiness and power of energetic action depend upon our being able to breathe and live in the cloud; content to see it opening here and closing there; rejoicing to catch, through the thinnest floss of it, glimpses of stable and substantial things; but yet perceiving a nobleness even in the concealment, and rejoicing that the kindly veil is spread where the untimpered light might have scorched us, or the infinite clearness wearied."—John Ruskin.

Russian Tyranny Unbearable.

Dr. Vinogradoff, the Oxford professor of jurisprudence, recently gave a course of lectures at Moscow university, where he once filled the history chair, and has explained why he had to abandon this enterprise and how much of the trouble in Russian universities arises. "I personally considered it impossible to lecture in a room surrounded by policemen with loaded rifles, and so did many of my colleagues. When the Moscow university made representations to the government in the sense that it was impossible to have two sets of authorities—the academic authority and the police authority—and when the rector, the assistant rector, and the professor resigned their administrative offices, they were dismissed from their professorships. Twenty-four other professors and lecturers then resigned."

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

Unedea Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

MAN IS SAVED AT NIAGARA

Human Chain Rescues Victim at Edge of Falls.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 19.—Truman Chapman, twenty-two years old, of Hamilton, Ont., was rescued from the brink of the American falls by four men, one of whom took a desperate chance to reach him. Chapman was sitting on the iron railing just above Prospect Point and was seen suddenly to topple backwards into the stream.

When the cry went up John Hughes and Thomas S. Winders of Niagara Falls, Thomas D. Thomas of Toronto, and a fourth man who did not give his name, leaped over the railing. The unidentified man waded several feet but could not reach Chapman. Hughes, Winders, and Thomas then formed a chain from the iron fence and clinging to the unknown's hand enabled him to reach Chapman.

Dead in a Steamer Fire.

Boston, July 19.—The forward cabin of the steamer City of Bangor was burned away and the vessel was otherwise badly damaged by fire, smoke and water as she lay at her wharf. The body of a man, believed to have been either a deckhand or a fireman, was found in the forecabin, and it is feared other lives were lost. Several of the crew and some of the firemen were injured.

Butterflies Without Heads.

Two European scientists have been making some curious experiments on caterpillars, the value and meaning of which have not yet been explained.

They had the curiosity to find out whether a caterpillar can turn into a butterfly if you deprive him of his head; also what will the butterfly be like?

By tying ligatures behind the heads, the caterpillars were decapitated. This didn't seem to bother them much, except that they didn't crawl as fast as before.

The greatest difficulty in the experiments was in getting the butterflies out of the chrysalises; most of them died, and it was necessary to help the others out. The butterflies thus obtained did not differ from the normal type—except for having no heads.

"Hard as a Garfish" Slogan.

A woman looking over costly jewel cases in one of the most expensive of New York shops the other day was struck with the beautiful, ivory like finish of a number of them. "What are they made of?" she asked admiringly. "Garfish skin, madam," answered the salesman. "Garfish leather, we find, is very little known about outside of the trade and yet it has come to be of importance. It not only can be worked up to this polish, but it is wonderfully hard. They say certain tribes of Indians knew its secret and that among them it was used as armor, the tradition being that a breastplate of it would resist any tomahawk or arrow. It can be made now so that it will turn the edge of a knife or a spear."

Booth Tarkington was talking in Indianapolis about a novelist of the "high-brow" type—one of those half-starved novelists whose reviews are much more remarkable than their sales.

"As this novelist, shabby and cold," said Mr. Tarkington, "was walking in Fifth avenue one wintry afternoon there glided past the magnificent automobile of a publisher who had brought out one of the poor fellow's books at a heavy loss.

"The publisher signaled to his chauffeur, the automobile stopped, and the novelist, in reply to a wave of the millionaire's hand, presented himself at the window of the car humbly.

"The publisher, wrapped in furs, said:

"There's a great manuscript nearly falling out of your hip pocket. If you weren't so well known—"

"Here the publisher removed the superb Havana cigar from his mouth and laughed a loud, scornful laugh.

"If you weren't so well known," he repeated, "I guess you'd have had your pocket picked."

Getting Back.
 The bald-headed barber: "I see premature baldness is due to some trouble with the teeth, according to a Paris physician."

The vindictive victim: "Well, I hope you'll be more careful when you are cutting my hair than you were when you were cutting your teeth."

The Reason.
 "That young couple are not in particularly good odor with the rich set, are they?"
 "How could they be in good odor when theirs is a centless marriage?"

Walls That Don't Transmit Sounds.
 Experiments have recently been carried out in Germany with the object of discovering methods and means for rendering walls and ceilings capable of effective resistance to sound transmission. One of the more recently devised methods involves the use of the ceiling, or parallel to the wall, as the case may be, of a network of wire stretched tightly by means of pul-leys secured into adjacent walls and not touching at any point the surface to be protected against sound.

Upon the wire network is plastered a composition formed of strong glue, plaster of paris and granulated cork, so as to make a flat slab, between which and the wall or ceiling is a cushion of confined air. The method described is said to be good in two respects: First, the absence of contact between the protective and protected surfaces, and, secondly, the colloid nature of the composition recommended for the plaster.

MAYOR DENOUNCED BY PAPER

Seattle Times Demands Cotterill Be Deposed.

Seattle, Wash., July 21.—Seemingly satisfied with the sacking of the I. W.
 W. and Socialist headquarters, the rioting sailors and soldiers attempted no further violence during the closing hours of the Potlatch. Of his failure, owing to court injunctions, to suppress the Daily Times and close the saloons, Mayor Cotterill said: "I tried in every legal and legitimate way to prevent a recurrence of Friday night's rioting."

The Times, in its Sunday edition, announces that it will at once sue Mayor Cotterill for $15,000 damages because of the attempt to suppress the paper. The mayor is "athletically demanded and referred to as 'the advocate of anarchy,' the leader of the red flag gang." The article says Cotterill should be deposed from the office of mayor.

LONG PLUNGE KILLS FLYER

Parachute Jumper Falls to Death Before Wife.

Seattle, Wash., July 21.—Francis L.
 Thayer, a parachute jumper, was drowned while making a descent from an aeroplane as part of the Golden Potlatch celebration's air sports.
 At a height of 600 feet he lost his grip and fell into the water. Thayer did not rise to the surface. He called Chicago his home.

He rolled himself into a compact ball as he approached the water, striking on his face and left shoulder.
 Mrs. Thayer was in a launch which was to have picked Thayer up.
 It made with all speed toward the spot where he went down, but his body did not reappear.

Keeping the Children Amused.

A delightful way to amuse children, and incidentally their parents, is by illustrating a fairy story, the title of which is guessed by those watching the performance.

Select a well-known story and divide it into short parts, or acts. Then let the children act the various parts in dumb show, using gestures without speech, which are not hard to teach very small children.

The idea is a good one for bazaar or school entertainments, where a public performance can be the climax of several rehearsals.

If possible, dress the little actors in costume and let the performance be given to the accompaniment of suggestive music that will help them make the right gestures at the proper time. Without having to think of lines to recite, children learn positions and gestures very quickly.

Used Fraud to Gain for Charity.

A strange psychological phenomenon is disclosed in the case of Sister Candide, a French nun who was recently convicted of swindling Parisian jewelers in order to raise money for charity. She systematically secured jewels of great value and then pawned them, using the money thus raised—over $1,000,000 in all—to carry on various charitable enterprises. She apparently did not realize the gravity of her offense, and sentence was suspended by the court.

Picture by Telegraph.

A miracle of modern science was performed the other day in Berlin, by Professor Clatzel, who transmitted a picture in fifteen minutes from Berlin to Monte Carlo, where it was received at the long-distance photography sta-
 graph, which was one of the Prince of Monaco, was so good that it was exhibited at the Casino the same evening.

Patriotic German Cook.

The Kaiser's patriot cook, Karl Jae-dicke, a highly salaried official who played an important part in the emperor's campaign for purifying the German language, has just died.

Jae dicke was the first imperial cook who scornfully rejected the flattering title chef, and called himself by the old German Mundkoch. In collaboration with the Kaiser, he worked out a complete dictionary of translations of the names of dishes from French into German, and it was under his regime that menus disappeared from the court and Spisekarten, printed in Gothic letters, took their place.

The German language league, a very powerful organization, regarded Jae-dicke as a hero, and wanted to make him its honorary vice-president.

The only dish for which Jae dicke could find no German equivalent was mayonnaise; but he got round that difficulty by spelling it "Melonaisse," thus giving it a German touch.

The whole staff of the Kaiser's kitchen turned out at Jae dicke's funeral, and a speech was delivered lauding him as "an honest German namer of German things."

LITTLE GIRL LOSES DISDAIN FOR THE BOYS.

Conversion Comes Through Disaster to Her Doll When She Undertakes to Throw a Brick at Marauding Dogs.

"Do you see that little girl?" asked the old bachelor, as he leaned upon his gate and halted me in my morning walk. "Yesterday she was all for woman's rights, but today her views are of a different complexion."

He nodded toward a four-year-old who was wandering with lonely and disconsolate air along the edge of the sidewalk.

"She lives in that little shack over there, and she hasn't much to play with, but she's well brought up and her mother has taught her to flock by herself and not chum with street boys and girls. Some one gave her a doll and doll buggy, and she's been out with it every fine day as proud and happy as a queen. She's scared to death, though, of two small dogs that live across the street and come sniffing around her and her baby. The boys, too, tease her sometimes, but they throw stones at the dogs and chase them away."

"Yesterday she was pushing her buggy along and singing to herself when the dogs ran out. She halted and watched them approaching. Then she made up her mind she'd chase them herself instead of squealing for
 the boys."
